

Below are renderings of an approx. 900' side path along the High Trestle Trail referred to as a stroller coaster. This is a concrete trail with rise and fall that is intended to create a different trail experience by breaking up the flat trail everyone is used to and make it more enjoyable for pedestrians, cyclists and those trail users in a stroller. This is side path off the existing trail making it an optional experience for those using the High Trestle Trail.

Below are three examples of the kid's exploration areas that serve as pocket play areas along the trail. They keep the natural theme of the Experience Park and provide more family focused, intimate play areas to enjoy while visiting or passing through the High Trestle Trail Experience Park.
